INTERMITTENT FEVER is so common in the country as scarcely to need comment.

The causes which produce it are such as cold, irregular living, over exertion, low spirits, night air, exposure to miasmatic exhalations, &c. In large cities where edge tools and agricultural implements are manufactured, the grinder protects his lungs by inhaling steam, and the dust flying off the grindstone by wearing a respirator. The coal miner endures the shaft provides himself with a safety lamp to guard against fire damp. Now it is equally necessary for those who are travelling in contact with any of the causes leading to intermittent fever, to provide themselves with that well known and highly esteemed remedy against it, the HOME STOMACH BITTERS.

ALEX. VALENTINE FOUND GUILTY OF THE MURDER OF NELSON STARK.

He Gets 20 Years in the Penitentiary.

The trial of Alexander Valentine, for the murder of Nelson Stark, the Swede shoemaker living near Orion, about the 8th of last April, which has been oc-cupping the Henry county circuit court for several days past was concluded last evening, and to-day a dispatch was received at THE ARGUS OFFICE from Cambridge, stating that Valentine had been found guilty and given 20 years in the penitentiary.

The particulars of this case are already known to the readers of THE ARGUS, as the first account of the affair appeared in this paper. Stark was an old bachelor; a miser; was supposed to have $700 or $800 concealed in the house; was found murdered in his house on the 10th of April, and, from appearances, had been dead about two days. Everything con-connected with the affair was a mystery until the arrest of the Westphal burglars, when THE ARGUS suggested that the officers "pump" those parties and see if something could not be learned in regard to the affair, etc., etc. The suggestion was followed, and the result was Valentine's arrest—and now his conviction.

Valentine turned state's evidence against the Westphals and Jack Current in the Westphal burglary case—and they were "sent up" for 20 years each. In retaliation, the Westphals, Ed., the father, and like the son, turned state's evidence in this murder case, and they were brought from Joliet in charge of officers to testify at the trial. They were kept separated, not even being allowed to talk in the cars, yet both told a very straight story. Like said that Valentine, Ed. Westphal, himself and a fellow calling himself "Doc" Brown, formerly of Davenport, had done the killing; that his father was posted on the outside of the house to watch, while Valentin, Brown and himself went into the house; that Brown held Stark while Valentine killed him, while he (like) stood by and was too badly frightened to do anything until after Stark was dead, when he assisted in the search for the money; he told where the money was found; how much there was (about $800 in gold, silver and greenbacks); how it was wrapped up; how divided, and also stated the position of the body and some of the furniture of the house when they left the house—which was exactly as they were when the murdered man was found.

Ben Stemple, of this city, testified that Valentine had proposed to him to rob an old man near where Valentine lived—and that a short time afterward Stark was murdered and robbed—and that from Valentine's conversation this was the place he had meant.

A number of other witnesses from this city were also called and examined in regard to what they had heard or knew of the matter—among them August Huseing, late sheriff; August Herkert, late deputy sheriff; City Marshal Hawes, State Attorney Parmenter, and Circuit

Clerk Harson.

The attorneys in the case were State's Attorney, Thomas J. McIlhenny, of Galva, and Hon. Charles Dunham, of Geneseo, for the prosecution; and Ira Marston, Esq., of Cambridge, (of Shepherd & Maistron) and Hon. W. W. C'Brien of Chicago for the defense.

Mr. O'Brien was at the Harper House last evening and when he told us that the case had gone to jury we asked his opinion of it. He said, "O nobody can tell what a jury will do. I thought I had a good case until I heard Mr. Dunham's three hour speech at the close and that staggered me. I consider Mr. Dun
